

American Conservation Experience Internship

American Conservation Experience interns (3) – Border impacts and wildlife

Full-time, 20 weeks starting in September

Deadline for applications: August 15, 2015

Apply through ACE: <https://usaconservationepic.applicantpool.com/jobs/>

Job Description:

Internship in natural resource management for collaborative effort to monitor border impacts and support natural resource projects at Saguaro and other national parks near the US-Mexico border in Arizona. We will include border impact surveys and restoration; outreach and education; monitoring wildlife using wildlife cameras; assisting with hydrological surveys; data entry and other office work; saguaro surveys; surveys and removal of invasive plants, and other duties. The interns will assist on other activities as appropriate for the park's needs and his or her skills, including office work. For example, if the intern has a strong interest or background in education and social media, we have a need for these skills and would incorporate into the work schedule. Interns will also have the opportunity to work on other projects to expand their opportunity for learning, and there may be opportunity for work with Mexican national park partners.

Ideal candidates will have an interest in field work; attention to details; office skills such as computer and writing skills. At least one intern must have strong Spanish speaking and writing skills, so Spanish skills are a definite plus.

